INTRODUCTION

What is a Development Plan Scheme?

A development plan scheme (DPS) sets out how the next local development plan will be prepared and reviewed. It includes:

- an explanation of what a local development plan is;
- a timetable for preparing the next local development plan; and
- a participation statement, providing details on how to get involved.

The DPS therefore acts as an important communications tool. It is key to supporting deliverable and people-focussed plans by letting stakeholders know when and how they can get involved in the plan and keep them informed of progress. Development Plans are also supported by a Delivery Programme, which outlines how and when the policies and proposals of the plan are to be delivered. The Delivery Programme is an important part of the framework for how the council monitors the performance of the LDP.

The Council will publish a development plan scheme at least annually.

What is a Development Plan?

The purpose of planning is to manage the development and use of land in the long term public interest. It does this by setting out how our places will change into the future, including where development should and shouldn't happen. In planning terms, 'development' can mean a number of things including the construction of new buildings, changes to the use and appearance of existing buildings, and other changes in the way land is used.

Development Plans establish where all future development, including new homes and workplaces, should be located. They also set out how key services and facilities will be provided, such as active travel networks, education and retail provision. Development Plans also play a key role in supporting the transition to net zero carbon emissions and protecting and enhancing the places that we value most.

CURRENT DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Local Development Plan 2

LDP2 was adopted in November 2022. It sets out a spatial strategy for East Dunbartonshire including detailed policies and specific proposals for the development and use of land throughout East Dunbartonshire. The Plan provides a basis for decisions on planning applications, and future proposals must align with the strategy. For more information, visit www.eastdunbarton.gov.uk/LDP-2

National Planning Framework 4

National Planning Framework 4 (NPF4) was approved by the Scottish Parliament in January 2023 and came into force on 13 February 2023. It is a long-term framework which sets out an approach to planning and development that will help to achieve a net zero carbon, sustainable Scotland by 2045. Under the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019, NPF4 forms part of the Development Plan and will be used to inform decisions on planning applications within East Dunbartonshire as well as throughout the rest of Scotland.

Planning Guidance

A series of guidance documents support the Local Development Plan 2. These explain, in detail, how the LDP2 policies are to be implemented and are used in the determination of planning applications. At present there are 18 guidance notes, which can be viewed on the Council website – www.eastdunbarton.gov.uk/planning-guidance

Regional Planning

Following the publication of National Planning Framework 4 on 13 February 2023, the Clydeplan Strategic Development Plan 2017 ceased to have effect from that date and no longer forms part of the development plan. Under the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019, SDPs are to be replaced by Regional Spatial Strategies. The Council is continuing to support the Clydeplan regional planning authority in preparing a future Regional Spatial Strategy, alongside the other constituent authorities within the Glasgow City Region: East Renfrewshire, Glasgow, Inverclyde, North Lanarkshire, Renfrewshire, South Lanarkshire and West Dunbartonshire (further details below).

FUTURE PLANNING CONTEXT

Planning (Scotland) Act 2019

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 was passed by the Scottish Parliament in June 2019. It sets out the future structure of the planning system in Scotland. New Regulations on local development planning to accompany the Planning Act are currently being prepared by the Scottish Government which will inform the preparation of the next East Dunbartonshire Local Development Plan (LDP3). These are expected to be published in 2023.

Local Development Plan 3

Under the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019, LDP3 will consider the ambitions and outcomes for an area, looking 20 years ahead. It will be developed through collaboration and based on robust evidence so that they are focused on delivery. The Plan will be place-based, with the inclusion of a clear Spatial Strategy reflected in a collection of maps, site briefs and masterplans where possible. There will be an emphasis on the Place Principle and stronger links with the Local Outcomes Improvement Plan (LOIP). Finally, LDP3 will be relevant and accessible to the people with an interest in the area.

Local Place Plans

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 introduced the opportunity for community groups to prepare a Local Place Plan (LPP) for their area. The aim of this is to empower communities and strengthen links between citizens, communities and the planning system. LPPs are a way for communities to highlight issues, ideas and aspirations for their areas. Examples matters that can be addressed in Local Place Plans include:

- sites which support climate change adaptation, such as renewable energy or flood mitigation;
- local initiatives for the promotion of active travel and community food growing;
- sites for housing, including for affordable housing, new or retained local employment or new tourism/community facilities;
- retaining, improving, and expanding quality open space and green/blue infrastructure and play facilities;

- conservation of the natural/built environment;
- improvements in the town/neighbourhood centre;
- support for a national development, as featured in the National Planning Framework; and
- protection of valuable local assets.

Planning Circular 1/2022: 'Local Place Plans' was published 21 January 2022 and provides guidance to planning authorities and communities on the procedures for preparing and registering Local Place Plans. The Scottish Government has also produced a 'How to Guide' which provides further practical information for those interested in preparing Local Place Plans.

Once complete, LPPs can be submitted to the Local Authority for 'registering' and, provided that they meet the minimum legislative requirements, will be a material planning consideration. Proposals and projects within any LPP submitted to the Council before an advanced stage in the plan preparation process can be considered for inclusion within LDP3. Further information on Local Place Plans is provided in the Participation Statement.

Regional Spatial Strategy (Clydeplan)

Under the terms of the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 the requirement for Strategic Development Plans (SDPs) in the four largest city regions has been removed and, in its place, there will be a requirement for all authorities, working together as they see fit, to prepare a Regional Spatial Strategy (RSS) setting out strategic development priorities for their region. Although they will not form part of the development plan, Scottish Ministers and planning authorities must have regard to any RSS in preparing, revising or amending any NPF or LDP respectively. The Scottish Government has stated they will publish guidance on RSSs during 2023.

Other Strategies and Assessments

A range of other plans and strategies will influence the LDP3, informing the overall spatial strategy and specific policies. The diagram below indicates some of these key plans and strategies:

Under the new planning regulations, planning authorities are required to prepare the following strategies and assessments alongside their LDPs:

Open Space Strategy

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 requires planning authorities to prepare and publish an Open Space Strategy. The Open Space Strategy sets out a strategic framework of the planning authority's policies and proposals relating to the development, maintenance and use of green infrastructure, including open spaces and green networks. An open space strategy must contain an audit of existing open space provision and an assessment of current and future requirements. The Council has already agreed that the Open Space Strategy will be incorporated into a future 'Greenspace Strategy' (together with the current Green Network Strategy and forthcoming Play Sufficiency Assessment – see below).

Play Sufficiency Assessment

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 requires planning authorities to assess the sufficiency of children's play opportunities in their area. The Play Sufficiency Assessment (PSA) will inform the evidence gathering phase of the LDP preparation by identifying sites for sports, play and outdoor recreation for people of all ages. The Open Space Strategy will aid in conducting the play sufficiency assessment. As mentioned above, the PSA will be incorporated into a future Greenspace Strategy.

Forestry and Woodland Strategy

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 brings in a requirement for planning authorities to prepare a forestry and woodland strategy. These will identify woodlands of high nature conservation value and set out the authority's policies and proposals as to:

- the development of forestry and woodlands,
- the protection and enhancement of woodlands;
- the resilience to climate change of woodlands;
- the expansion of a range of types of woodlands to provide multiple benefits to the physical, cultural, economic, social and environmental characteristics of the area; and,
- any other matter which they consider appropriate.

The Act sets out procedural details around consultation of the strategy and publication requirements.

Strategic Environmental Assessment

The Environmental Assessment (Scotland) Act 2005 makes Strategic Environmental Assessment (SEA) a legal requirement for many public plans, programmes and strategies, including the Development Plan. The policies and proposals contained within the new Local Development Plan will be assessed for their potential impacts on the environment using the SEA process.

The purpose of SEA is to provide a high level of protection for the environment by ensuring that environmental issues are considered by decision makers alongside social and economic issues. It does this by systematically assessing the potential significant effects of the plan, and recording the results in an Environmental Report. It also makes sure that the decision making process, in relation to the environment, is open and transparent by providing opportunities (through a period of consultation) for the community and other stakeholders to get involved at an early stage.

Equality Impact Assessment

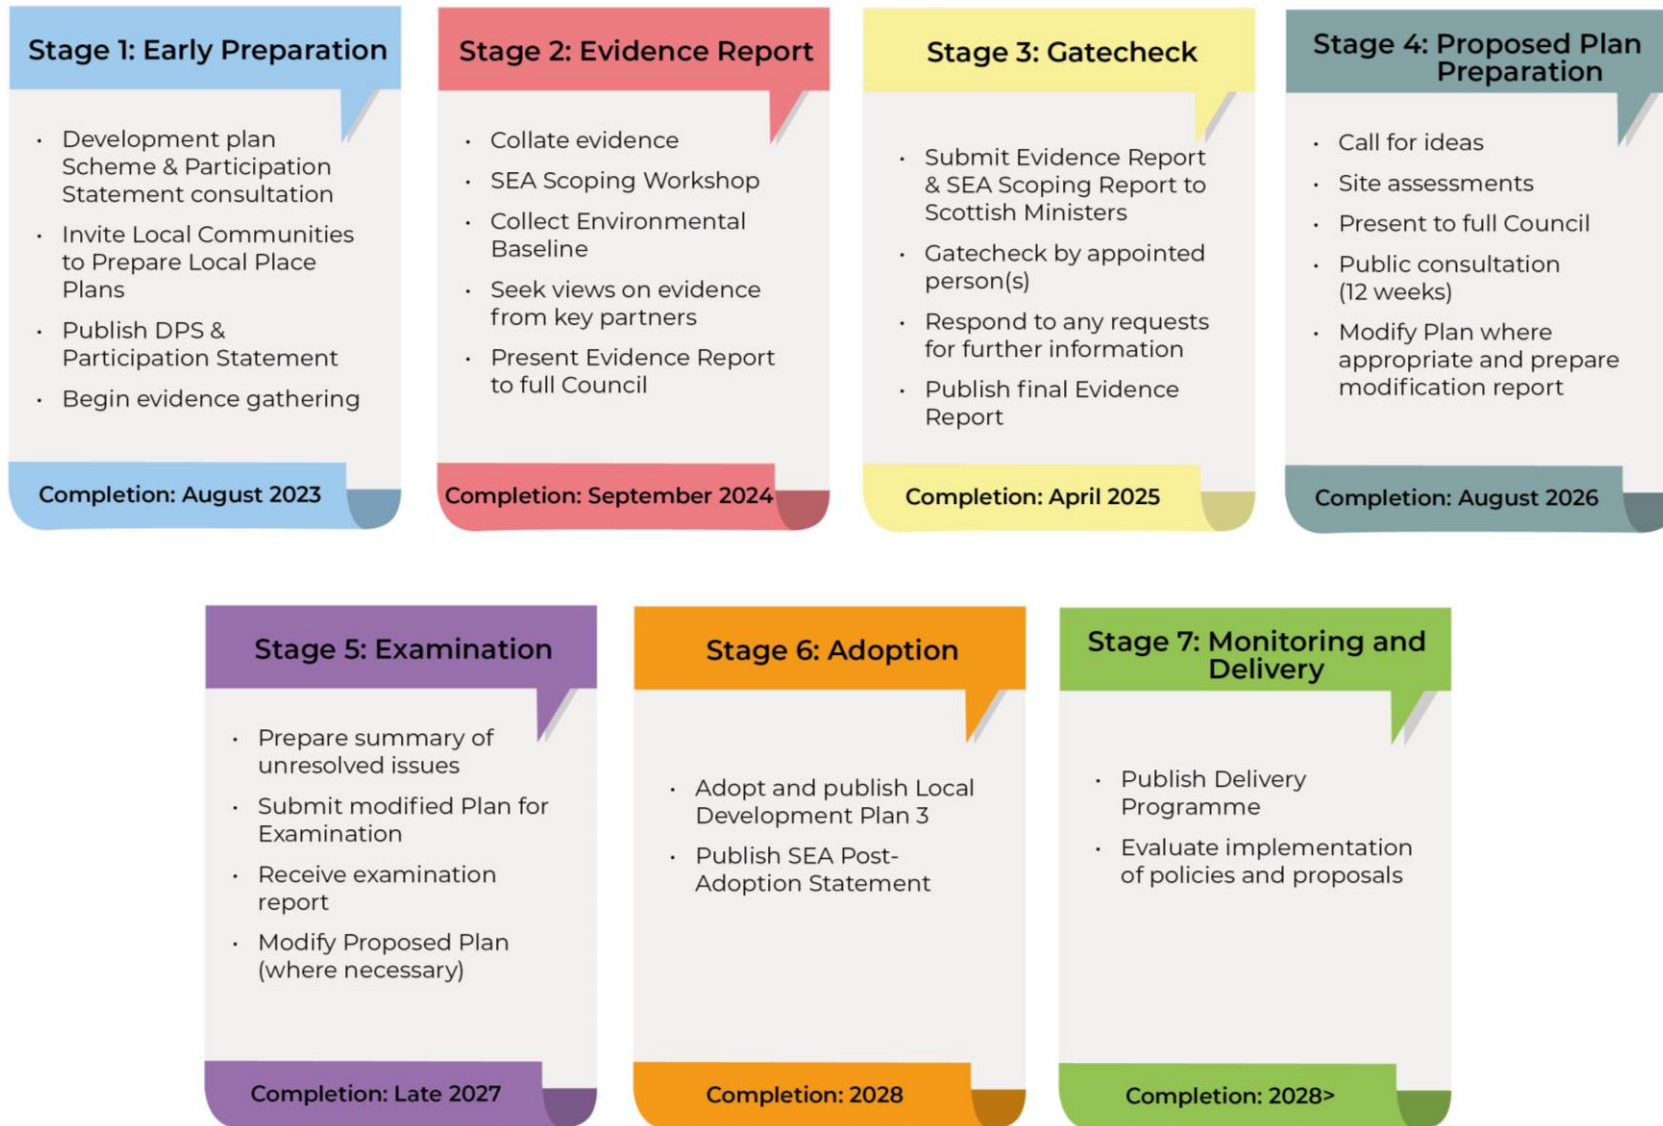

An Equality Impact Assessment (EIA) is a structured way of analysing the functions and policies of Council Services to establish how they affect different groups in the community. This can help us to identify any negative impacts any of our services might have on a particular group or sector of the community. We can then take action to help minimise or eliminate any negative impacts.

Carrying out an EIA involves an assessment of the likely (or actual) effects of policies on people in respect of 'protected characteristics'. Protected characteristics are defined within the Equality Act 2010 as: age; disability; gender reassignment; marriage & civil partnership; pregnancy & maternity; race; religion & belief; sex & sexual orientation. As part of the preparation of the Local Development Plan 3, the Council will assess the potential impact on each of each of these groups.

TIMETABLE - LDP3 PROCESS

The indicative timetable diagram below is based on the new Town and Country Planning (Development Planning) (Scotland) Regulations 2023 and Local Development Plan Guidance. This provides an overview of the plan making process over the coming years, including the key requirements within each stage and an anticipated completion timeframe. The Regulations state that the plan preparation should take around 3-4 years, allowing more time for a focus on the delivery of the plan in the remaining years and subsequent monitoring and evidence gathering to inform the next plan. The Scottish Government expects all planning authorities to adopt a 'new style' LDP within five years of the adoption of National Planning Framework 4.

Risks associated with the preparation of LDP3

New Development Planning Regulations and LDP Guidance

The above timetable is based on best estimates at this early stage of the LDP3 process, it is expected that this timetable will change. As we are now embarking on a new style of Local Development Plan under the Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 and as set out in the new Development Planning Regulations, the length of time it will take to undertake and complete each stage is uncertain, meaning that key milestones are subject to change. It is widely accepted that the new LDP regulations, and specifically the new requirements being placed on planning authorities, will take a period of time to bed-in. The DPS will be updated annually and this provides an opportunity to review and refine the timetable as required.

Gatechecks and Examinations

It should also be noted that many other planning authorities will be progressing their own LDPs within the same time period, following a similar timetable. This carries with it the risk that multiple Evidence Reports will be submitted to Scottish Ministers at the same time, which may cause a 'bottleneck' situation in terms of their scrutiny and approval, before we are able to progress to the next stage. Similarly, it is likely that multiple LDPs will reach the examination stage at roughly the same time, meaning that there could be resourcing issues with the undertaking of examinations by the Planning and Environmental Appeals Directorate (DPEA). The Council understands that this issue is currently being monitored by the Scottish Government and Heads of Planning Scotland in terms of implications for planning authorities. It is expected that future versions of the DPS will be better placed to factor in any consequences from this situation in the timetable.

Integration of Local Place Plans

The Planning (Scotland) Act 2019 includes a requirement for planning authorities to invite local communities to carry out a Local Place Plan. As indicated in the timetable above, the Council has now launched the invite for communities to prepare a Local Place Plan. The level of interest and uptake within East Dunbartonshire's communities is still unclear at this time and this may have implications on the overall LDP3 timetable. A webpage has been devised for supporting Local Place Plans. See also the Local Place Plans section in the Participation Statement below.

PARTICIPATION STATEMENT

Introduction

The Council will ensure that appropriate and proportionate steps are taken to engage with communities and the public at large during the preparation of the LDP. We will take into account the views of those who may be directly, or indirectly, impacted by proposals, providing opportunities for a diverse range of people to express their views. Our aim is for as many people and groups as possible to have the opportunity to engage in the process of preparing Local Development Plan 3. You may want to do this on your own or as part of a local organisation, such as a community council, residents association, local business or voluntary group. Key agencies, landowners and developers will also feed into the process. Everyone is entitled to comment and this applies as much to people who support the plan as to those who want to make objections. We will notify the public, interested parties and all other stakeholders at key stages throughout the LDP process.

The Participation Statement sets out in detail the ways in which the Council will engage with key stakeholders at all stages of preparing LDP3. New planning regulations require planning authorities to consult the public on the proposed engagement methods before embarking on preparing the plan. This allows interested stakeholders to have a say in how they can be most effectively consulted so that authorities can tailor their approach to improve the effectiveness of the engagement.

During the evidence gathering stage of the LDP process, a proportionate and flexible approach will be adopted by the Council in terms of consulting with key stakeholders. This will include an early engagement phase that will provide an opportunity for the public at large to be involved in shaping the evidence base for LDP3. There will also be targeted engagement related to particular topics/areas of evidence, where required. This can include targeted workshops, one-to-one meetings and individual sessions with specific target groups, such as community representatives, key agencies, disability groups, Gypsy/Travellers and young people to seek their views on where they live.

The following sections provide further detail on the approach to engagement at each stage of the LDP3 process.

There are 4 key phases where stakeholders can help shape the LDP:

Evidence Report Preparation (Stage 2)	Call for Ideas/ Sites (Stage 4A)	Proposed Plan (Stage 4B)	Examination and Adoption (Stages 5 & 6)
The purpose of the Evidence Report is to front load the work and use evidence to clearly inform the issues that should be addressed before work begins on the Proposed Plan - which will look at where development should take place. The Evidence Report is not expected to contain all the detail of evidence, it should provide a summary and the analysis of what the evidence means for the plan. In preparing the Evidence Report the planning authority must seek the views of those who are anticipated to be affected by the plan. This will include local community organisations, disability groups, young people, key agencies and regulatory bodies, landowners and other stakeholders. Note that whilst the Evidence Report will set out the likely land requirements to be addressed in the proposed plan, the Scottish Government expects this stage to concentrate on the broad concepts that will shape the plan and not the merits of individual sites.	After the Gatecheck process has been concluded and the Evidence Report has been deemed sufficient by the independent person appointed by Scottish Ministers, the Council will invite stakeholders to submit ideas and sites for inclusion within the proposed plan. Ideas and site suggestions submitted at this stage will be expected to demonstrate consideration of matters set out in the approved Evidence Report.	The proposed plan will bring together the broad concepts and matters set out in the Evidence Report with the ideas and sites submitted at the Call for Ideas/Sites stage. The proposed plan will set out detailed land allocations and policies upon which stakeholders will be able to make representations on either in support or opposition. Note that the National Planning Framework 4 (NPF4) now forms part of the development plan and Scottish Ministers expectation is that LDP's do not repeat policy within the NPF4 – unless where a locally tailored approach is required.	After the consultation on the proposed plan ends the Council will consider if any amendments to the plan are required. Once potential amendments have been made or considered the Council will submit the LDP for examination. All representations that have been deemed to be unresolved will be scrutinised by the Reporter acting on behalf of Scottish Ministers. During this stage, and the adoption of the LDP after the examination has concluded, communication will focus on keeping stakeholders informed of progress through the latter stages of the process. During the examination it is within the Reporters gift to seek further information from any party that makes representation to the proposed plan where they see fit to do so.

Communication

To ensure that a wide range of stakeholders get involved in the plan-making process, it is important that the Council uses multiple different methods of communication. Whilst the regulations set out minimum requirements for groups that should be contacted the Council seeks to go beyond this. The diagram below sets out a list of communication methods that the planning authority will use to make stakeholders aware of the opportunities to engage at the various stages of preparing LDP3.

As the plan-making process matures and the nature of engagement changes some communication methods may need to change or will be less appropriate. The figure below sets out at the various stages at which each communication method will be used.

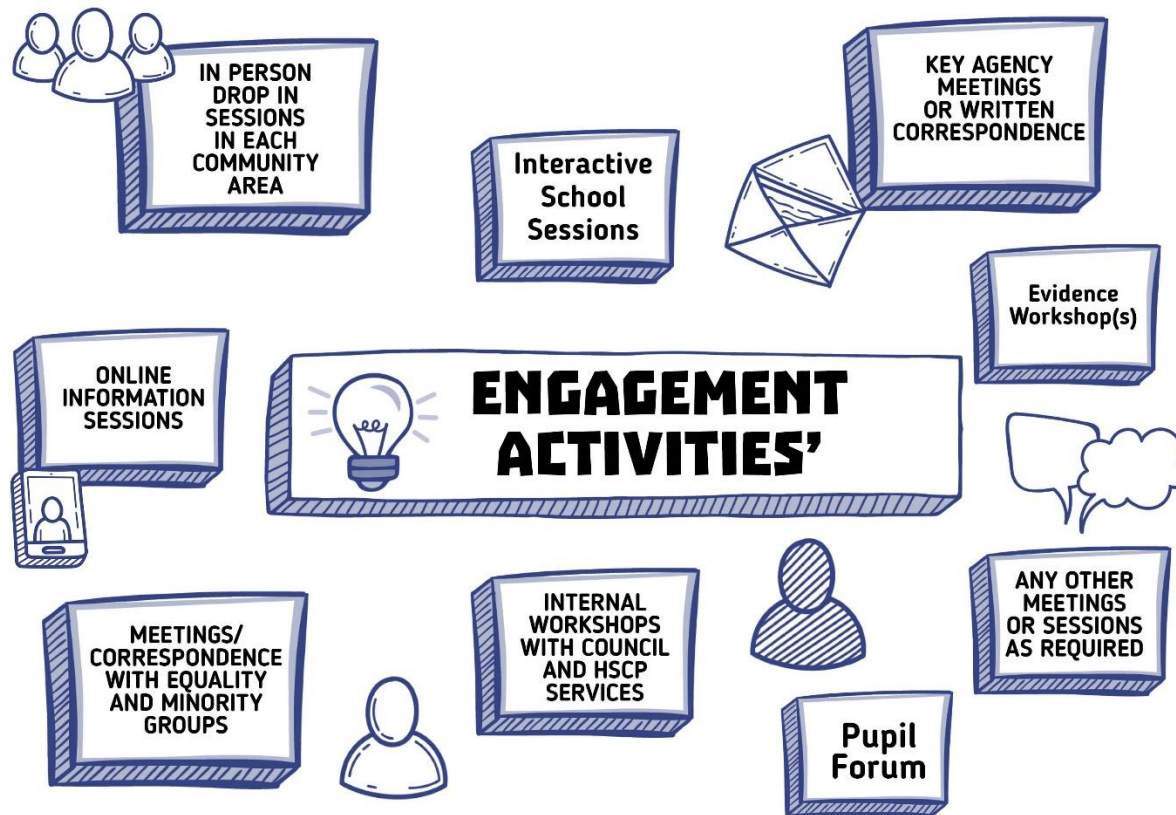

At what stage would we use these communication methods?	Evidence Report	Call For Sites	Proposed Plan	Notification (Examination and Adoption)

² Communication with internal services and the HSCP would only be where updated information is required, including addressing representations or responding to further information requests from the Reporter.

Engagement Activities

To ensure that as many people as possible have the opportunity to engage in preparing LDP3 the Council will undertake various engagement activities and sessions. These sessions will provide an opportunity for stakeholders to speak to officers to gain an understanding of the plan-making process, make comments and propose ideas. The diagram below sets out a list of engagement activities that the Council will use to facilitate engagement on LDP3. Further detail on each of the activities is also provided.

Engagement Materials

Whilst the engagement sessions will provide an opportunity to feed into the LDP process (particularly at the earlier stages), stakeholders will be able to provide comments and representations at any point during each consultation period via online resources and in writing. This is particularly important at the Proposed Plan stage where the Reporter working on the behalf of Scottish Ministers is required only to consider written representations. The diagram below sets out a list of engagement materials and the stages at which these will be used.

Local Place Plans

Recent changes to the planning system have introduced a provision for communities to prepare Local Place Plans for their areas. Local Place Plans are an opportunity for communities to highlight issues, ideas and aspirations in their areas. Local Place Plans are not intended to replace existing opportunities to participate in the planning system, but are to provide additional input.

Local Place Plans can identify areas of potential change, opportunities for enhancements and suggest areas of vacant or derelict land for new or alternative uses. Conversely, they can recommend land and buildings that should be protected as important local assets. Local Place Plans can also set out circumstances where the community group wishes to amend provisions within the Local Development Plan.

Local Place Plans can be prepared by community councils or any other constituted community group (this includes groups formed specifically for the purpose of preparing a Local Place Plan). Once complete, LPP's can be submitted to the Local Authority for 'registering' and - provided that they meet the minimum legislative requirements - will be a material planning consideration. Proposals and projects within any LPP submitted to the Council before an advanced stage in the plan preparation process can be considered for inclusion within LDP3. As set out in the Development Plan Scheme timetable, the Council anticipates that work on preparing the Proposed LDP3 will commence in autumn 2025. This is considered an appropriate point at which we would expect finalised LPPs to be submitted, if they are to be taken into account during drafting of the Proposed LDP3. The Local Development Plan Guidance states that LPPs should be submitted to the Council before the Evidence Report is submitted for 'Gatecheck'. The Council considers that this is not necessary provided that a community has registered their interest in preparing a LPP by the Gatecheck stage.

Whilst the planning authority will not be responsible for preparing and delivering LPPs, potential support for groups preparing LPP's could include:

- Help gaining an understanding of what NPF4, LDP3 and any relevant Locality Plans are trying to achieve.
- Assistance with structuring the LPP
- Assistance with preparing spatial and GIS data
- Signposting to potential funding mechanisms.
- Signposting to online help and other information sources (such as PAS/ Our Place).
- Suggestions for engagement methods for them to use whilst consulting others on their plans.
- Helping communities to understand what they can do themselves.

The Council has a dedicated webpage containing information and resources to help support communities prepare Local Place Plans which can be accessed by visiting www.eastdunbarton.gov.uk/LPP

Mediation

Early engagement with stakeholders in the preparation of the plan, for example through Place Standard exercises or plans prepared by the community, may highlight locally contentious issues or sites that are the subject of competing interests. Where such issues of dispute arise during the preparation process, the Scottish Government advocates for mediation to be used to overcome these issues. Whilst this is not a process that the Council has used before, where possible the Council will look to resolve differences and build support for proposals through mediation initiatives. Mediation is defined in terms of section 268A(7) of the 1997 Act and 'includes any means of exploring, resolving or reducing disagreement between persons involving an impartial person that the Scottish Ministers consider appropriate'. It is one of a range of techniques sometimes labelled as 'alternative dispute resolution (ADR)' which can include facilitation, conciliation and arbitration as well as mediation. Although a voluntary process, mediation can be used to help to build bridges between stakeholders and resolve issues of dispute. The Council will also consider any requests for mediation and the impact on the LDP3 timetable (if any) will be reflected in the next annual update to the Development Plan Scheme.

2023/24 Work Programme

The following table provides a detailed breakdown of key tasks over the next year, which the Council's Land Planning Policy team will be taking forward. This expands on the Evidence Gathering section included in Table 1 above and is intended to provide an indication of what the key tasks and targets will be during this period. The work programme will be updated as part the annual DPS review.
